

WED 27 MAY - SUN 31 MAY PATHWAYS TO HOPE

ujia

Pathways to Hope brings some of Israel's most thoughtful young changemakers to the UK for a week of bold ideas, dialogue and leadership.

In partnership with the Shalom Hartman Institute, a leading centre of Jewish thought and leadership in Jerusalem, UJIA is convening a delegation of emerging Israeli policy thinkers, educators and organisers to engage with students, communal leaders, donors and young adults across the UK.

Through public events, intimate conversations and a shared young leadership Shabbaton, the delegation will tackle the urgent questions shaping Jewish life today: Israel's future, Zionism, Diaspora-Israel relations, and how a new generation can lead with courage, complexity and hope.

- Meet Israel's next generation of leaders.
- Explore what's next for Israel, Diaspora and Zionism.
- Find reasons to be hopeful in a fractured moment.

Delegation Led By:

Ronit Heyd
Vice President
Shalom Hartman Institute.

Ronit Heyd is Director of the Center for Israeli & Jewish Identity at the Shalom Hartman Institute. She brings over 20 years of experience leading initiatives addressing Israel's most complex social challenges and is a leadership and social change expert.

Previously, she served as Executive Director of Shatil, the New Israel Fund's capacity-building arm, where she led major social justice and religious freedom initiatives and worked with organisations and activists to strengthen Israeli democracy. Ronit holds an MPA from Harvard Kennedy School (Wexner Fellow) and an MA in social psychology from the Hebrew University. She lives in Jerusalem and is also a published children's author.
